1 The Role of the Office Manager

The office manager is the person who spends the most time at the office. You are the eyes and ears of the space: the first to notice what is off, and the first to fix it.

Think of the office as your own room. You own the standard. You set the tone. Day to day, the space should look consistent, clean, and ready: because you made it that way.

The core of this role

Attention to detail. Small disturbances in the space: a chair out of place, a smell from the fridge, a missing supply: are your responsibility to catch and fix.

Proactivity. Do not wait to be told. If something is wrong, act. If something is about to run out, reorder.

Ownership. The office reflects you. Treat it accordingly.

2 Core Character Traits Required

Presence	You must be physically present at the office more than anyone else. Absence makes this role impossible.
Consistency	The office should look the same every morning: standard layout, standard cleanliness, standard supplies.
Speed	Problems should be resolved the same day they appear, not flagged and forgotten.
Strictness	When working with the cleaner or any external party, hold them to a high standard without exception.

3 Direct Responsibilities

1. Fridge & Kitchen Supplies

- Check the fridge daily for expired or old items and dispose of them immediately.
- Wipe down the inside of the fridge regularly: no smells, no residue.
- Ensure all fridge-related supplies (liners, cleaning cloths, etc.) are stocked at all times.
- Replace trash bin liners at the end of each working day without exception.

2. Classroom & Common Space

- Ensure the classroom layout matches the standard at all times: chairs arranged, surfaces clear.
- The space must be ready for use every morning without requiring additional setup.
- Vacuum the office on a regular schedule. You are responsible for ensuring the vacuum cleaner is accessible and in working order.
- Report any damage or maintenance issues immediately.

3. Cleaning Standards & Cleaner Coordination

- Manage the relationship with the external cleaner directly.
- Set clear expectations and be strict: the cleaning must be done at a high level, every time.
- Ensure cleaning supplies are always stocked. Check inventory proactively, not after they run out.
- Inspect the results after each cleaning session and give feedback when the standard is not met.

Standard to aim for

The office should look the same at 9 AM every day. A visitor arriving for the first time should find it immaculate. That is the bar.

4. Merch Sales & Inventory

- Manage the merch section in the office: set it up, keep it tidy, and ensure it is always presentable.
- Operate the payment system for merch sales (system will be set up and handed to you).
- Keep an accurate inventory log. Track what is sold and what needs to be restocked.
- Notify leadership when stock is running low before it runs out.

5. Student Co-Working Space & Bookings

- Manage the booking system for the student co-working space.
- Know who is attending at any given time: attendance should always be on record.
- Ensure the space is prepared and reset after each booking session.
- Handle any issues that arise during co-working sessions (noise, access, supplies).

6. Lost & Found

- Maintain a designated lost and found area in the office.
- Log every item that is found: what it is, when it was found, and where.
- Notify the relevant person if the owner is identifiable.
- Items not claimed within a set period should be disposed of or donated: do not let the space accumulate clutter.

Your mindset

Every one of these responsibilities requires you to act before being asked. If you are waiting for someone to tell you the fridge smells, or the merch shelf is empty, or a student left something behind: you are already behind.

5 End of Day Checklist

Before leaving the office every day, go through each item below. Every box must be checked. Do not leave until all five are done.

- | | | |
|----------|--|--------------------------|
| 1 | Smell check
Walk through the entire office and check for any unusual smells. Check the fridge, trash bins, and common areas. Replace bin liners if needed. If there is a smell, find the source and fix it before leaving. | ☐ |
| <hr/> | | |
| 2 | Chairs up. Tables in formation.
All chairs must be placed on top of the tables. All tables must be in the correct formation as per the standard layout. The space must be ready for vacuuming and for the next morning. | ☐ |
| <hr/> | | |
| 3 | Fridge is clean.
Open the fridge. Check for expired or old items and dispose of them. Wipe down the interior if needed. The fridge must be clean and odour-free when you leave. | ☐ |
| <hr/> | | |
| 4 | Merch is well presented.
Check the merch section. Items must be neatly arranged, fully visible, and presentable. Note any items that are running low and flag for restocking. | ☐ |
| <hr/> | | |
| 5 | Co-working space and printer area are clear.
The co-working space must be free of papers, personal items, and clutter. The area near the printer must also be clear and tidy. Nothing left out overnight. | ☐ |

Non-negotiable

This checklist is not optional. It is the minimum standard every single day. If any item cannot be completed, escalate immediately: do not leave it for tomorrow.

Space Standards & Photo Reference

The photos below show exactly how each area of the office should look on a standard day. Use these as your daily reference. If the space does not match, fix it before the first person arrives.

Note

Actual photos of the standard will be provided separately and inserted here. Until then, use this page as the placeholder for your visual reference.
